Series of Protests at Daiei – Won't Play Ball with Rhodes

Professional Baseball Team Daiei, September 30: The ripple effect of the incident wherein Daiei, at its last meeting with Kintetsu (at the Fukuoka Dome), shut down the outfielder, Rhodes, who is attempting to set a new Japanese homerun record, are spreading. Commissioner Hiromori Kawashima of the NPP (Nippon Professional Baseball) gave a statement indicating his annoyance October 1, saying "It would be hard to believe that a baseball fan could have issued such an order." The Daiei Club has received several dozen protests, telephone calls, and mail inquiries.

On the September 30, Outfielder Rhodes arrived at the game with Daiei having tied the record of 55 home runs in a season, held by the Daiei Coach Oh. However, on instructions from Battery Coach Wakana, almost no strikes were thrown to Rhodes.

During the match, there was a chorus of angry shouts from the Daiei fans as well: "Can't you play fairly?"

The Commissioner made a statement on October 1 in response, complaining that "(Intentionally depriving someone of the opportunity to set a record) is contrary to the essence of baseball, which values fair play above all else. This not only put a black mark on the record that has been saved, but put a black mark the character of the player that holds that record as well."

In 1965 [sic -- "1985"?], when Bass, who played for Hanshin, was one [homerun] from the record, the intentional-walk strategy was used against him in a game versus the Giants, coached by Coach Oh. Coach Oh, who again is embroiled in a "fairplay debate," explained that "I think that Tanoue, whose highest win ratio was in jeopardy, did not want to risk a hit. While I understand where the fans are coming from, it is all just part of the game."

On the other hand, coach Ogi of Orix, which has two more games against Kintetsu, says that "the games will be played in the same way they have always been played. If we can keep (Kitagawa, who is scheduled to be the prior hitter in the lineup on October 2) from getting a hit, this will improve the level of confidence, and even if he gets a hit on us, it will just provide more experience."

Kazuo Sayama, an author that is quite knowledgeable about Japanese-American baseball, is concerned that "On the day that Ichiro broke Joe Jackson's rookie hit record, in Japan the thought was "He did it to an American." Over there, they did not do anything to get in the way of Ichiro's record. I have heard that they were catcalls even from the Daiei fans -- this is the type of thing you lose fans over." (0026)
